I visited Shanghai Disneyland when I was 6 years old. There are various interesting rides and cute cartoon characters inside the park. Unlike other amusement parks, Disneyland also has a grand castle which represents the fantasy. The grand castle seemed to lose me in the real fairy tale. The most important thing is that this trip planted the seeds of magic in my heart.

The Forbidden City is the largest surviving palace-type building in the world. When I first entered the Forbidden City, I was amazed at the integrity of the cultural relics. As I got closer, I also marveled at the delicacy of the ancient carvings. Standing in the Forbidden City brings a sense of awe, a feeling that you are travelling back in time, conversing with the people and soldiers of ancient.
